Good day.

I am a Canadian. I am a Canadian taxpayer. I use the Internet. Without the Internet, I do not have a job. I use media to store data. I listen to music. I store legal music on various media.

Bill C-11. Fair dealing. Is it fair to give one special interest group free reign to do whatever they want? Is it fair that you will allow the cash flush music industry permission to force ISPs to reveal personal information without so much as a search warrant? Is it fair to allow this group to be beneficiaries of yet more revenue from the sale of media that is not used to archive music? Is it fair that taxpayers will be required to pay for all of the technology required to implement C11, both the government and private sector (Internet)?

You have all made it quite clear that Bill C-11 is not about fairness to Canadians.

Will it be fair if Canadians remember your decision in 2015 during the next federal election?

Be proud of your decision. It will affect your children, their children, etc,... It may also affect your employment status.
