Responses

1. Economic Recovery and Growth

Given the current climate of federal and global fiscal restraint, what specific federal measures do you feel are needed for a sustained economic recovery and enhanced economic growth in Canada?

Get rid of free trade and go back to what we had before. Our trade should be Canadian.

2. Job Creation

As Canadian companies face pressures resulting from such factors as uncertainty about the U.S. economic recovery, a sovereign debt crisis in Europe, and competition from a number of developed and developing countries, what specific federal actions do you believe should be taken to promote job creation in Canada, including that which occurs as a result of enhanced internal and international trade?

First, the crisis has been created on purpose by the banks and big businesses managed by the one world government (I know that you know who I am referring to). They always want to have control so that the poor get poorer and the rich get richer. With the direction we are headed in, Canadian companies will not survive and it will be Americans again who will get their hands on them. It is an organized gang, everything has been thought of, and everything is rigged in order for Canada to lose out.

3. Demographic Change

What specific federal measures do you think should be implemented to help the country address the consequences of, and challenges associated with, the aging of the Canadian population and of skills shortages?

Stop closing government services and trying to put everyone out of work. Stop plundering old age security to finance other countries. Make education more affordable because there are poor children who cannot pay for university, but who would make good doctors or other professionals.

4. Productivity

With labour market challenges arising in part as a result of the aging of Canada's population and an ongoing focus on the actions needed for competitiveness, what specific federal initiatives are needed in order to increase productivity in Canada?

Abolish free trade and support our Canadian companies, so they are not bought by other countries and then dismantled.

5. Other Challenges

With some Canadian individuals, businesses and communities facing particular challenges at this time, in your view, who is facing the most challenges, what are the challenges that are being faced and what specific federal actions are needed to address these challenges?

Small businesses. How do you expect them to survive if people are losing their jobs? No job=no money=less sales. We cannot have a good economy if no one is working.
